

'Dóchas' by Séamus Ó hAodha ..

In the frosty March
when the sky lights up.
After the shower,
we are not without its star.
The road was dark,
the rain was sharp.
But look at my feet,
we are not without its star.